Product-Specific Risks

You are exposed to derivative risk

- The Underlying Fund may invest in financial derivative instruments which may be purchased on regulated markets or over-the-counter and may have less liquidity and more volatility than conventional assets, exposing the Underlying Fund to higher risks and potential losses. When financial derivatives contracts are traded over the counter, the Underlying Fund may find itself exposed to risks arising from the solvency of its counterparties and from their ability to respect the conditions of these contracts.

You are exposed to sustainability risk

- In pursuing a sustainable investment objective, the Fund may underperform its broader investment universe by excluding potential opportunities due to nonfinancial considerations. Sustainability factors may also contribute significantly to risks, such as market risks, operational risks, liquidity risks or counterparty risks.
